Cable Break Disrupts Toll Service

FRANKLIN GROVE — Workers installing a new telephone cable for the Illini State Telephone Co., east of here inadvertently cut a long distance toll cable owned by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. Friday.

The resulting break cut off toll service from Dixon to most cities for some nine hours. The break occurred at 11:50 a.m. and service was restored at 9 p.m.

The machine installing the new cable sliced into the toll cable at least twice in a 385-foot distance.

Workmen began arriving on the scene shortly after 1 p.m. to repair the damages with cable being imported from the Aurora-Joliet area to replace the damaged section.

The toll cable contained 150 circuits and 43 private lines.

300 Attack Hong Kong Police

HONG KONG (AP) — Three hundred Red Chinese crossed into Hong Kong today and attacked a police garrison with automatic weapons fire, killing four Hong Kong policemen and wounding 13 others. Gurkha troops of the British army came to the rescue and the Communists dispersed.

In London, British officials said that on the basis of first reports their belief is that the attack was "an isolated incident" not involving Chinese military forces.

There were reports the Communists fired also on the advancing Gurkhas, tough fighters recruited by the British in Nepal on the Indian subcontinent. None was reported hit.

Six hundred Gurkhas took over the police outpost in the border village of Sha Tau Kok and quiet returned to the border area by nightfall.

The village is on the Kowloon peninsula, scene of Communist outbursts against British rule in Hong Kong in May and June. The main island of Hong Kong was not affected.

At the outset of the Communist attack, 86 Hong Kong policemen barricaded themselves inside the police post and about 80 others took cover in a government building 50 yards behind it.

Troops of the 48th Gurkha Infantry Brigade advanced through sniper fire to rescue those in the government building, then turned against the 300 Reds trying to batter down the doors of the police post.

Two of the dead policemen were identified as Hong Kong-born Pakistanis. Sixty or so of them are on duty in the border area. The other two killed were Hong Kong Chinese.

Mass Along Border Two large Communist mobs were spotted massing across the border, the government said, one group of about 3,000 Chinese including 300 armed men in uniform and another mob of some 2,000.

Authorities in the beleaguered British colony mobilized all auxiliary police forces, alerted Hong Kong's 10,000 garrison troops and cabled London for instructions.

Urgent U.N. Session Is Demanded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egyptian and Israeli forces battled in the air and on the ground along the Suez Canal today in what appeared to be the most serious clash between them since the six-day Arab-Israeli war.

Radio Cairo said the Egyptian government demanded an urgent session of the U.N. Security Council in New York to deal with what it called "the new aggression."

The Egyptian broadcast said Israeli air force jets attacked Egyptian positions in Port Said and Port Fuad at the Mediterranean entrance to the Suez Canal and that Egyptians planes engaged them in air combat. It claimed Israeli forces were trying to move up the eastern bank of the canal in a drive to seize Port Fuad.

Egyptian Artillery

Israel claimed that Israeli jets were strafing Egyptian artillery which had opened fire on the Israeli occupation forces from the west bank of the canal. It said the fighting was along several miles of the canal's banks. Israeli tanks on the east bank were hit by the Egyptian artillery fire, a Tel Aviv communique said.

It was the second straight weekend in which fighting had broken out in violation of the Arab-Israeli cease-fire which went into effect June 10, halting Israel's sweep into the territories of three Arab nations: Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

An Egyptian army communique said six Israeli Mirage jets, French-built planes had penetrated Egyptian air space over Port Said and Port Fuad at 2 p.m. (8 a.m., EDT), the Cairo broadcast said.

More Men for Viet Requested

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command argued for a new large U.S. troop build-up today and may have run into sharp questioning by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on how many troops are needed and why the South Vietnamese are not pulling more of the load.

In making its case for perhaps 100,000 troops above the current 466,000 in Vietnam, the U.S. Command also told McNamara what Gen. William C. Westmoreland considered his troops could do with less.

A U.S. official spokesman declined to elaborate on this point, but past indications have been that Westmoreland felt substantially less than the requested figure would leave him without enough troops to win the war.

McNamara, who is on his ninth trip to Vietnam, will carry Westmoreland's plea, together with his recommendations, when he returns to Washington to report to President Johnson.

The official spokesman said McNamara in a three-hour discussion of allied troop strengths, asked "extremely close questions" on the ratio of U.S. combat infantrymen to support and rear-area troops and discussed a possible boost in Saigon's army and militia force of 650,000. This represents about four per cent of the population. McNamara apparently feels this figure is too low.

McNamara expressed concern over how fast progress was being made in some areas of the Vietnam war. The fighting ability of government troops, rated as poor by senior U.S. officers, also apparently was discussed.

McNamara told the U.S. commanders that he considered it absolutely necessary for allied forces in Vietnam be used effectively.

The question of how quickly new forces would be brought to Vietnam also was discussed. In two of Vietnam's corps areas and may have run into sharp questioning by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara on how many troops are needed and why the South Vietnamese are not pulling more of the load.

Civil War Rages in Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Civil war raged in eastern Nigeria today in the battle to reunite by force Africa's most populous nation.

Federal troops invaded the eastern region, now the self-styled Republic of Biafra, in a bid to capture rebel leader Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu and end his secession.

Lagos Radio said the federal troops, driving southward across Biafra's northern border, captured two villages, one only 40 miles from the regional capital of Enugu.

The radio said fighting broke out after Biafran troops fired on federal soldiers massed along regional border.

(Biafra Radio in Enugu charged the federal forces were led by white mercenaries. It said the Biafran troops "inflicted heavy losses" on the federal force and pushed it five miles back into government territory.

The Biafran report said the federal troops launched their attack at many points along the northern border.

Congolese Claim Defeat Of Pro-Tshombe Troops

KINSHASA (UPI) — The official Congolese press agency today claimed loyal government troops have "dispersed" the white mercenaries backing an armed rebellion in northeastern Congo.

"They (the mercenaries) are in the jungle," the agency said, "or wandering around like bodies without souls."

The Congolese government claimed victory with the recapture of Bukavu and most of Kisangani — formerly Stanleyville — which the rebels and mercenaries seized Wednesday.

Official reports said government troops beat back the rebels in heavy fighting through the streets of the two towns, the capitals respectively of Kivu and Orientale provinces.

Fears for the lives of whites living in Kisangani were expressed after the pilot of a hijacked Congolese airliner carrying wounded mercenaries and rebels to Rhodesia radioed there were "many" dead among the city's white population.

Dramatic Flight

The commandeered aircraft landed at Kariba in Rhodesia late Friday and a Rhodesian plane carried 12 seriously injured mercenaries and Africans to a hospital near Salisbury. Nine refugees including the pilot and two women, were placed in custody after their dramatic flight from Kisangani.

Congolese President Joseph Mobutu announced he planned a radio address to his sprawling, bloodied country shortly. Earlier, he ordered government troops to protect the lives of whites as well as Congolese civilians in Bukavu and Kisangani.

The rebellion apparently was spawned in support of former Premier Moise Tshombe, now being held in Algeria for possible extradition to the Congo where he has been sentenced to death. Tshombe's loyal Katanga gendarmes backed by mercenaries were reportedly spearheading the revolt.

There was no way of confirming the government claims of victory in the northeast. The situation in the entire war zone was unclear.

Advertising Director To Retire

ROY H. MORTON

Roy H. Morton, who came to The Telegraph on June 1, 1949, as advertising manager and during 1957 was promoted to advertising director, has announced he will retire July 31.

Morton and his wife, Ruth, will sail from New York on Aug. 30, for England aboard the Queen Elizabeth.

They plan to spend at least a year in England living near relatives at Alderley-Edge, Cheshire, and in the Shakespeare country, near Stratford-on-Avon.

Mrs. Morton is a native of Manchester, England, but became a citizen of the United States some years ago. All of her relatives still reside in England as does a sister of Morton's.

He is a native of Middletown, N.Y., and began his newspaper advertising career when he joined the staff of the Mansfield, (Ohio), News-Journal as an advertising salesman.

He later worked for the Adrian, (Mich.), Telegram as retail advertising manager before coming to The Telegraph.

Before entering the newspaper advertising field, most of Morton's work had been in promotion and retail sales.

The retiring advertising executive says he plans to pursue his main hobby which is photography.

Morton is a vestryman at St. Luke's Episcopal Church and is a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Mortons live at 608 Garden Walk and will leave Dixon on Aug. 28.

Hanoi Reports Death of Key North Viet General

SAIGON (AP) — A shadowy North Vietnamese general who masterminded Communist political and military strategy in the south from a jungle stronghold near Cambodia's border has died of a heart attack according to Hanoi Radio.

He was 53-year-old Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, who not only directed the war in South Vietnam but was the eighth ranking member of North Vietnam's Communist hierarchy.

Radio Hanoi said that Thanh died in a hospital July 7 and was buried the following day. His body had rested in state at the Hanoi officers' club and North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh had led a top-level official delegation past the bier.

American sources in Saigon said they had no information on when Thanh had returned to North Vietnam.

It was known to intelligence sources that Thanh had been routed from his command post in the jungles by Tay Ninh Province earlier this year by a massive U.S. assault.

At that time, Thanh pulled back into Cambodia with his command personnel and members of the National Liberation Front, the political organ of Hanoi in South Vietnam.

In May or June of this year the Liberation Front again established itself — along with printing presses and a clandestine radio — in the Tay Ninh jungles within South Vietnam. It is not known whether Thanh returned at that time or went to Hanoi instead.

His death, however, is expected to have little if any effect on the continuation of the pace of the war. Within the Red command Thanh had several high ranking North Vietnamese generals, any one of whom could take over.

Thanh was born in Central Vietnam and prior to World War II was a schoolteacher in Hanoi. He was evidently a member of the Communist party at this time and after the war emerged as a power in the Red youth movement.

NEWSROOM NOTES—It takes more than two to go water skiing—legally—in Illinois.

In addition to the person on the skis and the operator of the motor boat, there must be at least one other competent person in the boat who will be free to keep an eye on the skier, according to the Illinois State Bar Association.

If there is only one person in the boat both that person and the person skiing are guilty of a misdemeanor and may be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100.

The law also sets the standards for the safe operation of the motorboat and its tow, and the hours during which the sport may be pursued.

So as not to endanger the life, limb or property of any person, the boat that is pulling water skis, an aquaplane or similar device must be operated in a careful and prudent manner at a safe distance from other persons and property.

Such water skiing or aquaplaning activities may be conducted only from one-half hour after sunrise to one-half hour after sunset unless part of a water skiing tournament, exhibition or trial for which adequate lighting is available.

The speed of the boat also has its legal limit. Its speed must permit the boat to be stopped within the "assured clear distance ahead."

Neither the powerboat nor the tow rope may be manipulated in such a way as to cause the skier to strike any person or object except jumps, buoys or similar objects normally used in competition or recreation skiing.

In case of a boating or skiing accident causing death, personal injury, or property damage of more than $100, the operator of the boat must make a written report to the Illinois Department of Conservation, or to the nearest U.S. Coast Guard Officer in Charge, or Marine Inspector, depending upon whether the waterway is under state or federal jurisdiction.

No person may operate a powerboat, or ride on water skis, aquaplane or similar device who is intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic drug, barbiturate or marijuana. Violators of this law also may be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A rare whooping crane chick, born Thursday to the only whooping crane couple in captivity, died Friday.

Zoo Director Fred Stark said the fuzzy chick, who spent its only full day of life swimming and being fed small pieces of fish by its parents, crawled under its mother and was found dead two hours later.

Stark said the cause of death was unknown. The body will be sent to the Department of Interior's wildlife refuge center in Baltimore, Md., for an intensive examination.

Rosie and Crip, parents of the dead chick, concentrated on keeping a second egg warm. It is expected to hatch by Monday.

The whooping crane population now stands at 57, with 45 in the wild and 12 in captivity.

Sauk To Offer Course in Library Science

A program to prepare library technicians or assistants is being offered at Sauk Valley College, beginning this September, according to Philip S. Osborn, academic dean.

While this program may be elected by beginning students, it holds many opportunities for other potential applicants. Persons now employed in library work and who would like to take library technology courses, but who do not wish to obtain a degree, are welcome to elect the professional courses. Teachers who wish to improve their competencies in this field are also permitted to enroll in courses dealing with library techniques.

Two professional courses will be available this fall in the evening hours. Introduction to Library Science is scheduled for Monday; Audio-Visual Materials will be taught on Wednesday. The audio-visual course centers on the preparation and teaching use of audio-visual materials and equipment. Both courses carry three hours of credit and meet from 7 to 10 p.m. Laboratory work is scheduled as part of the class hours.

For the spring semester, courses in book material selection and library reference will be offered. In subsequent semesters, catalog, classification, filing, library organization and administration, and Library Practice I and II will be available so that a total of 24 hours, required for certification, may be taken.

The library technician program presents an opportunity for persons who desire to do library work, but are not able to complete the five years of work normally required for a librarian's preparation. Graduates of other colleges interested in library courses may also enroll in these courses.

Indict Deputy DA in Plot To Kill Judge

BESSEMER, Ala. (UPI)—A deputy district attorney was indicted Friday for conspiring to bring in a "known hired gun" from New York to kill a judge who had called for an investigation into gambling and protection rackets in this steel mill area.

A special grand jury returned the indictment against James Hammonds, already stripped of his official duties and under previous indictments on charges of conspiracy and bribery. The grand jury recommended that Hammonds, an elected official, be impeached.

Hammonds was indicted with conspiring "together with Rudolph Michael Pipolo to unlawfully and with malice aforethought kill" state Circuit Judge Gardner Goodwyn Jr.

Hammonds was taken into custody shortly after the indictment was returned Friday and posted $5,000 appearance bond. He charged the indictments were the result of the work of "political enemies" and that he would be exonerated.

Pipolo, described as the "known hired gun," was arrested earlier in New York. He refused to waive extradition and Alabama authorities said an extradition hearing would be scheduled soon.

Goodwyn called the grand jury into session last month after charging from the bench that a gambling and protection racket was being practiced in the Bessemer Cutoff area, which includes most of West Jefferson County and its steel mills near Birmingham. Bessemer Cutoff is a small community.

He charged later that his life had been threatened and police confirmed that they were investigating a possible murder plot, which resulted in a warrant for the arrest of Pipolo.

Jefferson County Sheriff Mel Bailey initiated the investigation into the district attorneys' office last summer after raids on numerous private clubs and honky-tonks in the Cutoff area. A special grand jury was impaneled in September and it indicted several persons who testified that gambling was prevalent.

"In the event of a national emergency, the loss of certain combat elements would be serious," Kane said.

A Pentagon-sponsored plan, now being considered by Congress, would abolish 15 understrength divisions, including the 33rd, and replace them with super-ready brigades. In the process, Illinois would lose 300 of the 11,500 guardsmen it now has.

"The loss of 300 men is not really significant," Kane said. "The significant difference would be that 2,000 combat troops would be transferred to service units. We would lose a combat brigade, two armored units, a cavalry squad, two battalions of artillery, a maintenance battalion, two battalions of artillery and a supply and transportation battalion."

Cecil Wade, 42, 514 E. 10th St., Sterling, is reported as improved and in good condition today at KSB Hospital, where he was taken late Thursday night with undetermined head injuries suffered when his head hit the pavement after he was allegedly punched by another Sterling man.

Wade, hospital officials said, will be transferred to Community General Hospital, Sterling, some time today.

Edward Dykhuizen, 39, 1411 Third St., Sterling, is the man charged with battery in connection with the incident, which occurred in the 300 block of First Street here.

Dykhuizen is presently free on $2,000 bond and is scheduled for a court appearance July 20.

Canadian Air Force Vet Charged in Two Murders

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A gaunt, 35-year-old Canadian Air Force veteran stood meek and silent in Magistrate Court, charged with the murder of a young couple and the wounding of two others during a wild shooting spree.

Arthur John Towell said only that he would like time to get a lawyer before entering a plea on two counts of first degree murder and two of attempted murder.

Magistrate James Bartman Friday ordered Towell held without bail and said the plea would be heard July 14.

Police said the shooting with a high-powered rifle, broke out near the University of British Columbia about 9 p.m. Thursday.

The quiet evening was shattered by more than a dozen shots from the two-story West 11th Avenue house where Towell, a bachelor, lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Towell.

Neighbors ducked for cover in their homes as bullets shattered their windows. Others dived behind parked automobiles while more bullets howled wildly as they ricocheted off empty vehicles.

Some 20 minutes later, when Towell walked out of his house with his hands in the air, a young couple lay dead in the back yard of their home next to the Towell residence and two women were seriously wounded.

Police said the 5-foot, 10-inch, 140-pound Towell collected guns and made his own ammunition as a hobby. They said they found 13 guns, several hundred rounds of homemade ammunition, army ammunition pouches, a bayonet and two army knives in his home.

Deputy Police Chief John Fisk said Towell spent about 15 years in the Canadian Air Force and was discharged about two years ago on medical grounds.

No motive was found for the slayings. Police Staff Sgt. William Porteous said: "The man just went berserk."

David D.A. Webster, 31, an assistant professor of education at the university, and his wife, Marlene, 30, were killed instantly with single shots in the chest. The couple's four orphaned children, aged six months to 10 years, were found by police huddled together in the basement of their home.

Wounded and reported in fair condition were Mrs. Holda Baxter, 56, of Powell River, B.C., and Mrs. Patti Barrass, 18, a bride of only a few weeks.

Webster was hit as he ran into his back yard after the shooting started. His wife was cut down as she ran to his side.

Mrs. Barrass suffered multiple minor wounds from a bullet and flying glass while she was babysitting with her five grandchildren in a home across the street from Towell's.

Mrs. Barrass was shot in one leg as she and her husband walked down the street in front of the Towell home.

While police moved in on the Towell house with guns drawn and helped ambulance attendants pick up Mrs. Barrass, Towell's mother came running outside, shouting: "Don't shoot! Don't shoot! My son will surrender."

Towell walked out unarmed and surrendered quietly.

Substantial Outbreak of Flu Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Public Health Service is predicting a "substantial" outbreak of influenza this winter, particularly along the eastern seaboard. Surgeon General William H. Stewart said Friday the prediction was based on a study of influenza viruses isolated by scientists after small outbreaks during the past winter and spring.

He said the type of virus expected in the coming winter normally recurs every two to three years. It did not show up in last winter's studies.

Stewart recommended immunization against the flu after Oct. 1 and not later than the first weeks of December. He recommended use of the newly introduced "bivalent" serum, which protects against both of the common strains of influenza, rather than the "polyvalent" vaccine, which protects against older strains.

Persons who have not been vaccinated since 1963, he said, should be vaccinated with bivalent vaccine in two doses two months apart. Persons who have been immunized since July 1963, need have only a single booster of bivalent vaccine.

Wind" and decided she must play Scarlett.

"The girl I select must be possessed of the devil and charged with electricity," said Director George Cukor. More than 1,400 girls were given trials before Miss Leigh landed the part, playing opposite Clark Gable. The role won her an Academy Award.

She won a second Oscar in 1950 for her role as Blanche de Bois, a Southern belle of a different kind in "Streetcar Named Desire."

Miss Leigh's most recent starring movie role was in "Ship of Fools."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-556: Norma J., aged 36, is a school teacher.
"Dr. Crane," her sister asked at the church Marriage Clinic, "my sister Norma has been dating a man of her own age."
"But he lets her buy the theater tickets and pay all their expenses when they go to a restaurant."
"My husband dislikes him for thus sponging on Norma and being a gigolo."
"But we can't get Norma to break off with him. Why would any self-respecting woman be so stupid?"
The usual woman is about 75 per cent maternal (motherly) and only 25 per cent sweetheart (erotic).

In order to feel properly romantic about a virile male, a girl must be dominated by him, at least in the erotic sphere.

So she generally expects her sweetheart to pay for the movie tickets and other expenses on a date.
But in our society where women greatly outnumber men, it is not always easy to find thrilling, dominant males for all the unattached women.
Thus Norma, like thousands of others, is selling out for half a man, rather than not having any date whatsoever.
For women derive a great deal of pleasure "mothering" a male.
So they will put up with gigolo tactics and pay his bills, as they would for a son, just to feel maternal and protective.
Norma thus expends affection and care upon her gigolo which she would otherwise expend on a cat, goldfish or canary in her spinster isolation.
Her gigolo is thus a substitute for her cat (or dog) or other recipient of the feminine desire to coddle, comfort and protect.
Sometimes girls like Norma will even marry and support such a loafer as her gigolo husband.
And they may attain a partial degree of marital pleasure out of such an arrangement.
But they never obtain the full excitement of a thrilling romance, which requires that they feel dominated completely by an independent male.
Thus, if Norma should ever meet one of those dominant males later on, the virile male could easily pull her away from her present gigolo.
For in a showdown, women crave masculine dominance to add the final 25 per cent to bring their romanticism up to the 100 per cent goal.
Alas, the male shortage forces many splendid women into a romance that may never go beyond the 75 per cent "maternal" stage.
A woman subconsciously regards a gigolo as sissy and effeminate, even though she may refuse to face such a diagnosis consciously.
Once she has been swept off her feet by a truly dominant male, she immediately recognizes the difference.
And a dominant male can be short, crippled or less educated, but if his male magnetism proves dominant, she will be his devoted slave instead of merely a "mamma," as she must function towards a gigolo.
A gigolo usually is low in virility, anyway, for men of strong male magnetism are independent in spirit and pay their own way, plus that of their sweethearts.

Work Begins Monday on Expressways

CHICAGO (AP) — The worst traffic jams in Chicago history are expected Monday when 5½ weeks of repair work on three expressways will be started.
The $3,368,000 repair program will reduce the number of lanes at sections of the Dan Ryan (South), Stevenson (Southwest) and Kennedy (Northwest) Expressways until Aug. 16.

Francis S. Lorenz, state director of public works, said the first few days of the work will be the hardest on motorists and truckers. It takes a few days for them to locate the best alternate routes.

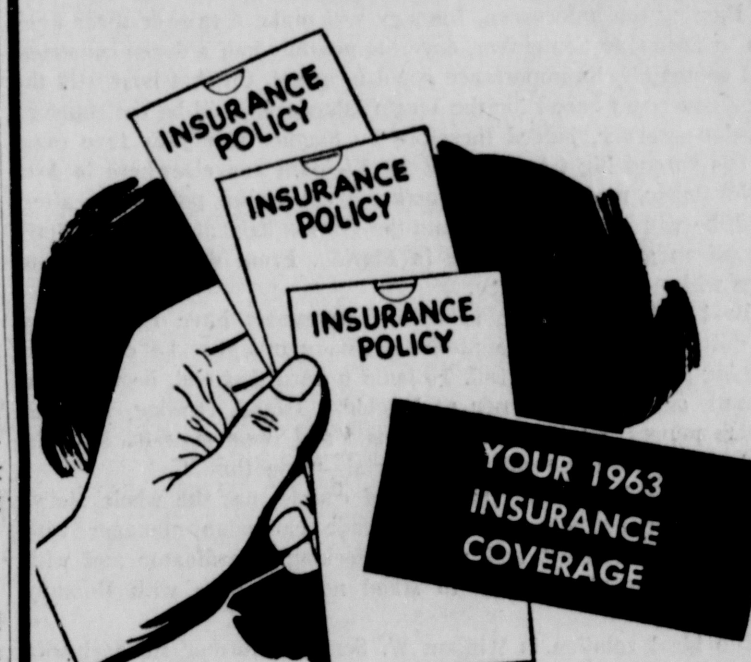

In some sections the number of lanes will be cut down to two and maximum speed reduced to 35 m.p.h.

Lorenz recommended that motorists southbound in the Kennedy Expressway turn east into Ohio Street and use Lake Shore drive to Grant Park. They can connect with the Dan Ryan at the McCormick Place link or with the Eisenhower at the Congress street turn.

Those northbound in the Dan Ryan can turn east into the Stevenson south of Cermak road and move into Lake Shore drive at McCormick Place, Lorenz suggested.

Motorists bound for the central business district via the Stevenson, he said, can take major north-south streets east of the Tri-State Tollway to reach Ogden or Archer avenues or the Eisenhower.

Lake Shore drive also is undergoing repairs. Sheridan road, Broadway, Clark Street and Ashland avenues provide alternate routes.

Knowledgeability Gap Hurts Romney

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

CHICAGO (NEA)—If he is to sustain his 1968 presidential candidacy, it is hardly too much to say that Michigan's Gov. George Romney will need to have something of the look of a new man when he steps aboard the S.S. Independence Oct. 16 for the showcase National Governors Conference en route to the Virgin Islands.

The men around Romney have no illusions. They appreciate the magnitude of the task that lies immediately before them. They know their man is sure to stay alive as a candidate at least until the first 1968 primary tests in New Hampshire and Wisconsin. But they also know he might be badly crippled for those tests if, in the July-January period now unfolding, he does not arrest and correct the slide he suffered in the months after his 1966 re-election.

There is more to their approach, however, than just "refit and repair." Some Romney strategists operate on the theory that, as a man basically "nonpolitical" and possessed of a strong religious bent, he would never be an easy choice for his party and hence would have to bid for the GOP nomination in the hardest way.

The early 1967 slide simply makes the problems that much tougher.

As they now shape up, the biggest is what might be called the "knowledgeability gap," the notion widely held among politicians and elements of the press that Romney simply does not have a suitable grasp of most of the great issues of the day.

Those now deeply engaged in planning the governor's next six months give the very highest priority to closing this gap, to making Romney an entirely plausible presidential prospect.

The gap yawns widest in foreign affairs. It is being suggested that, ideally, the governor should make at least two or three—perhaps more—major foreign affairs pronouncements in speeches between now and early 1968. The plan is for more on Vietnam, big talk on Europe, on national defense policy, aid and development, and on a broad overview of the foreign field.

His April 7 Hartford speech on Vietnam was well-received but is accepted by his staff as only a small push in the right direction. Finally sinking home to his staff is the awareness that he cannot go on kicking away his opportunities by doling out foggy generalities intended to enshrine goodness and family solidarity.

Barring the unforeseen, Romney will make a two- or three-week trip to Europe in September, covering possibly half a dozen countries. If it comes off, its importance could be great. On that boat with the other governors bound for the Virgin Islands, he will be the returned traveler-observer, judged therefore by tougher standards than ever.

His second big trip, planned for Vietnam and elsewhere in Asia in November, may prove still another great turning point. Soon afterward, he will be thrust again into the glaring light at another strictly Republican governors meeting in Florida. From then on, the campaign will move to full pace.

Past failures in such spotlighted moments have been hurtful but not fatal. But no one around Romney imagines he can afford anything but success this fall. To build toward that end, he will have a month or so this summer at Mackinac Island, reading, studying position papers, talking with strategists and issue experts. It could be his last available—and most crucial—"free time."

The "knowledgeability gap" is, of course, not the whole story. The governor badly needs a high-grade campaign manager with talents as a strategist and a head-knocking co-ordinator and with sufficient personal authority to stand nose to nose with Romney himself.

The ideal solution is William W. Scranton former Pennsylvania governor. Getting him, or anyone like him (if any can be found) is something else. And the lack is real. The big Romney operation in Lansing, a bustling thing as viewed recently by this reporter, is poorly synchronized with the Washington effort led by Leonard Hall.

By September, the quest for national convention delegates will move to the nitty-gritty stage. Romney will have to have a firm plan; it will have to be known to and accepted by both the right and left hand in his camp, and he will have to have the horses to carry it forward. There is no visible evidence that the Romney forces are near to being ready.

"I Hear They're Still Arguing About Who Fired the First Shot!"

U.N. Could Bring Peace to Jerusalem

By GEORGE DE LONG

Jerusalem, the many-storied Holy City of the Bible, has known little but constant war and destruction during its 3,400-year history.

Once again, as a result of the Arab debacle in the Mideast war, the Holy City has a new ruler—Israel. The Jews have proclaimed their "annexation" of the city. By this action Israel has alienated many nations otherwise supporting her in the current United Nations session on Mideast issues. Talk of internationalizing the city is on many lips. The Vatican, in fact, is demanding an international regime founded on . . . "the rights of man."

No city of the world is richer in religious lore, imagery or more revered as a shrine. Its streets have been trod through the centuries by the great conquerors—King David (1000 B.C.); his son, Solomon, builder of the great temple; Babylonians, Macedonians under Alexander the Great; the Ptolemies, kings of Egypt; Syrians, Turks, Romans, Persians, Moslems, the Crusaders.

Jerusalem is the Holy City of three great faiths—to Moslems ranking in holiness only after Mecca and Medina; to Jews, their capital city of Bible times and the symbol of their great glories; to Christians as the site of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

Yet 20 times has it been destroyed. Invaders scaled its walls, sacked and burned its revered shrines. Always the city was plowed under and a new holy city resurrected from its ashes.

To be sure, Jerusalem is a symbol of paramount importance to the Jews. No one of reasonable mind would expect them to surrender the Wailing Wall, the only remnant of the temple still standing and access to which they have long been denied.

Other faiths, however, have claims which, to them, are equal to those of Israel. Here is the Christian shrine, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, believed to be the site of Golgotha. Here is the Via Dolorosa, the road upon which Christ bore His cross. Nearby is the Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives.

To Moslems the Mosque of much flesh these days—both male and female types.

Confidential: To all the physicians who wrote to thank me for defending them against irate patients who were kept waiting (sometimes for hours): I love you, too.

Confidential: To all the patients who wrote to tell me that I am out of my mind when I try to make excuses for physicians who keep patients waiting (sometimes for hours): Sorry, but what I said still goes. A first-rate physician thinks more about people than he thinks about time.

With all this religious and historical background, it is safe to assume that control of Jerusalem by one nation will continue to make the Holy City the focal point of contention between Arab and Jew. On the other hand, reasonable decision on the city's future could very well be the opening wedge toward peace in the Middle East.

Men of good will, through the United Nations, have the power and the machinery to make Jerusalem an international city, governed by no one nation, its gates open wide to Christian, Jew and Moslem alike.

In 1949 the United Nations backed down from a decision to internationalize the city in the face of spirited opposition from both Israel and Jordan. If, with firm, positive action, the U.N. now takes Jerusalem under its protective wing as a free city, the shrine again may live up to its old name of Ursalimmu, the city of peace.

The Doctor Says

By W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What are the symptoms of colitis? Can it cause constipation?

A—The chief symptoms are loose stools often flecked with mucus, excessive gas in the intestines sometimes accompanied by rumbling noises and diffuse abdominal distress which may vary from a vague uneasiness to severe cramping pains. There may be pains in the chest. Many a neurotic woman who complains of frequent heart attacks has a healthy heart and a nervous irritable colon.

Colitis is at the opposite pole from constipation which is properly defined as having stools that are hard and dry and difficult to pass. Many a person with colitis, however, overemphasizes the bowel, then skips a day. He may mistakenly refer to this as constipation.

Q—What is the difference between a spastic colon and ulcerative colitis? Could a spastic colon lead to ulcerative colitis?

A—Spastic or mucous colitis is the less serious of the two. It is caused by emotional upsets, by taking laxatives and other irritants or by over-indulgence in fruit and vegetables, especially when eaten raw. The cause of ulcerative colitis is unknown. There is no relation between the two diseases.

Although a victim of spastic colitis may have several loose stools a day they are not as numerous as those of ulcerative colitis and do not contain blood. A person with spastic colitis can usually maintain a fairly good state of nutrition in spite of the food that passes through him undigested, but the person with ulcerative colitis has a progressive loss of weight unless the disease can be controlled.

Q—Is it harmful to take Azulfidine every day for spastic colitis? Will malt soup extract or injections of vitamin B-12 help?

A—Azulfidine, one of the sulfa drugs, is usually given for ulcerative rather than spastic colitis. It should be taken only under close medical supervision which should include periodic blood counts. Since malt soup extract is a laxative it should not be taken routinely by anyone and never by a person with a tendency to loose stools. Vitamin B-12 will cure pernicious anemia but not spastic colitis.

Ray Cromley Students' Opinions on Drugs Strong, Pro, Con

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A systematic poll of graduate and undergraduate students at one of the top dozen American colleges indicates that the use of drugs on campuses may be more widespread than heretofore imagined.

The school has very high academic standards.

The poll showed that 20 per cent of the undergraduate students and 8 per cent of the graduate students had used marijuana at some time. Apparently, about half of these undergraduates were "current users," having used the drug within seven days before the poll.

The poll was accomplished by anonymous questionnaires. Ninety per cent of the undergraduate and graduate student body answered.

Approximately a fifth of the undergraduate students expect to use marijuana in the future—at least once or twice.

Though only 9 per cent of the undergraduates say they have used LSD in the past (and only 1.1 per cent are using LSD at present), 12 per cent expect to use LSD some time or other in the future.

In their answers to the questionnaires, roughly four-fifths of the undergraduate students said they favored some legal way by which people could use marijuana. Some favored open sale. Some favored controls of various types.

Most students favored tight controls for LSD. About half thought it should only be available for genuine research.

On their questionnaires, some students told why they use dope.

One blamed boredom "pot is sort of like the flicks—you ask yourself what to do tonight . . . if there isn't anything particularly exciting, you get stoned."

Some said their experiences were "pleasant, like alcohol."

The majority—the nonusers—also commented.

Said one: "My moral code requires that I maintain the maximum possible control over my mind and senses. Taking drugs has the effect of removing that control. It is therefore morally wrong for me to use these drugs."

Others called drug use "debas-

ing."

One asked: "Can actual happiness be found in a pill . . . ? Not by retreating into a mental shell but by active living and love for our fellow man will a person feel complete and satisfied."

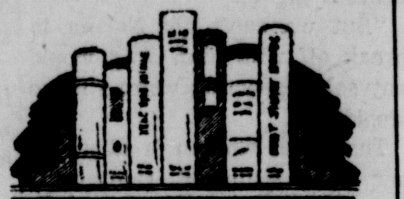

Remember that most of the users, though a minority in this college, were among the top students in their high school classes, or they would not have been admitted to this particular school.

A study of the answers of the drug users seems to indicate that we in society have given them no strong standards on which to base their lives.

We have moved sharply ahead in our schools in pushing the intellectual approach. We have not paralleled that advance in the schools with a strong spiritual base on our communities that gives these bright young people something to live for.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: For 11 years our home has been a big old-fashioned rambling house on the outskirts of a suburb. Our older children's friends are all youngsters they've known since first grade. Now my husband's firm is transferring him to a city 500 miles away from this home we love. Our two older youngsters are both terribly resentful over this move. Their father is very impatient with them. He says they are old enough to understand that it means promotion in his firm, more money for us all and . . .

Answer: He's not impatient with them. He's just mad at himself because he has to hurt them.

Between you and me, I think he needs some comfort, because he's got two sadnesses whereas you and the children have only one. He not only shares your sadness at leaving this home you all love but also has to manage the sadness of imposing his loss on you and the children.

Oh yes, I think he needs cheering up. So why don't you and the children remind him that your resentment at this move isn't resentment at all but appreciation of him and these 11 happy years he has given you? Why don't you all get together, you and the children and say to him:

"But look, it's our love of this home you have given us that makes us so mad at leaving it! It's not criticism of what you are doing. It's love for what you have done."

That what he needs to hear. For he has completely misread the meaning of his family's resentment at losing its home. Once it's explained to him as the appreciation it actually is, he can stop thinking of himself as a brute you all hate and maybe begin to feel less impatience with the children's disappointment.

It's awfully hard for us to impose disappointment on people we love. It's so hard that when they look disappointed and reproachful, we get wild at them for making us feel such painful self-reproach. And if those people can't see past our anger at them to that pain we feel, everybody gets awfully mixed up. We all retire to different corners and glower at each other. Which is pretty silly when one considers that all this mutual impatience and resentment is just the result of our refusal to know what our real feelings are.

SHORT RIBS

By Frank O'Neal

Dear Ann:

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16 and very popular. In fact, TOO popular. Please believe me when I say I am still a good girl. I admit I have necked with several guys (I started to date when I was 13) but I have never done anything I am really ashamed of.

The problem is that I get asked out so much and I like so many guys that sometimes I accept two dates for one night. For example, I'll accept a date with Freddie from 7 til 10, and then I'll tell Teddie to come over at 10:15 and we'll go for a ride or a late show at the drive-in. It has come back to me that I am getting a pretty tacky reputation.

I am only allowed to go out weekend nights and I have a 1:15 curfew which I have never broken. Please tell me how I can improve my reputation. — ANGEL PUSS

Dear Angel: The first thing you can do is to cut out the second shift. A gal who has to stagger the traffic lives the impression that she is trying to break some sort of record.

And I suggest that you make a new rule—"Hands off, one and all." Although you obviously consider yourself virtuous because you are technically intact, I suspect you are crowding the line, which can be risky as well as damaging to a girl's reputation.

Dear Ann Landers: I got plenty darned sore when I read that letter from "Goggle-eyed," the man who claims this is "The Year of the Rear."

I agree that women's fashions are downright unattractive these days. Anyone with two eyes in his head can see that there is entirely too much leg showing and the skirts are much too tight and too short. But why don't some of the men take a good look at themselves? I am sick and tired of seeing rolls of fat hanging over belt buckles. My husband yells that I am a lousy wife because buttons are missing from his shirts. The buttons do not come off in the laundry as he insists. They pop off when he tries to jam his fat self inside. He sneaks the shirts back into the drawer and then he puts the blame on me.

Sure, some wives are too heavy but many of them have had four or five babies in 10 years. They work like horses and they eat like horses. What's the husbands' excuse?—SIZE 16 AND WISH I WEREN'T.

Dear Size 16: Take that and that, and that, you fat husbands. But, in all fairness I must say, Lady, excuses don't count. It's what meets the eye that matters. And the eye is meeting entirely too

Martin-Kirchner Wedding Vows

OREGON—Marriage vows were repeated by Miss Barbara Jean Martin and James Kirchner in a June ceremony held in the Methodist Church when the Rev. Hillard Howard, pastor of the church, officiated.

The Robert Martins, rural Oregon, are parents of the bride, and Mr. Kirchner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kirchner, Winnebago.

Music for the afternoon double service was provided by Mrs. Jonas Martin, organist, and decorations featured pink satin bows and lighted candles in altar candelabras.

The bride's white organdy gown worn over silk taffeta, was styled with a bouffant floor-length skirt topped by a molded bodice of appliqued organdy. Her shoulder-length bridal veil was held by a headpiece of organdy petals, and her flowers were white carnations and pink roses.

Given in marriage by her father, she was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank Hollenbeck, Rockford, matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Ruby Martin, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Sue Kirchner, Winnebago, the bridegroom's sister. Their full-length sleeveless sheaths of pink linen were complemented by matching headresses and nose-gays of pink and white carnations.

Beige accessories accented the pastel blue linen frock worn by Mrs. Martin, and the bridegroom's mother selected a costume of rose lace and matching accessories. Pink and white carnations were combined in their shoulder corsages.

The bride's brother-in-law, Frank Hollenbeck, Rockford, attended the bridegroom as best man; groomsmen were Mr. Kirchner's brothers, William and Thomas Kirchner, Winnebago, and guests were ushered by the bridegroom's cousin, Thomas Inboden, DeKalb, and Glen Martin, brother of the bride.

Pink and white decorations trimmed the church fellowship hall where a reception was held following the ceremony. A cloth of pink linen and an overskirt of white organdy covered the refreshment table where a wedding cake was served with coffee and punch by Miss Kathy Kearney, Miss Patricia Martin, Miss Peggy Danovsky and Miss Betty Fuitts.

For their wedding trip to Lake Geneva, Wis., the new Mrs. Kirchner, a 1967 graduate of Oregon Community High School, wore a pink and white dress with pink accessories.

Mr. Kirchner, a 1966 graduate of Winnebago High School, is an employee of the Rockford Blacktop Company, and they are residing on Rt. 2, Oregon.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES KIRCHNER

Creston Church Is Setting for Krug-McPherson Ceremony

CRESTON—The Methodist Church was the setting for the June candlelight wedding of Mrs. Donna Vanstone Krug, daughter of the LaVerne Vanstones, rural Rochelle, and Frederick E. McPherson, Rt. 1, Ashton, son of the Clarence McPhersons, Franklin Grove.

The Rev. Dale Luther, pastor of the church, officiated as vows were exchanged by the couple before an altar trimmed with bouquets of white gladioli, pink carnations and foliage.

The bride's street-length sheath of pastel blue linen was worn with a matching jacket and white accessories, and her bouquet combined pink roses and white Fuji chrysanthemums.

Ralph Erickson, Ashton, served as best man for Mr. McPherson, and Mrs. Erickson, who attended the bride, was attired in a sleeveless dress of floral printed silk accented by blue accessories and a pink rose corsage.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vanstone wore a jacket-dress of flowered silk with white accessories, and the bridegroom's mother chose a green floral frock and black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

The refreshment table, arranged for a reception held in the home of the bride's parents, was covered with pink linen and an overlay of pink net caught by corner clusters of rosebuds. An ornament of miniature bells and wedding rings topped a two-tiered pink and white cake which centered the table and was encircled at the base by a garland of foliage. A bridegroom's cake and the wedding cake, flanked by pink tapers, were served by Mrs. Robert McPherson, Oregon, and coffee was poured by Mrs. Theodore McPherson, Dixon. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. James Snyder, and other assistants were Mrs. Floyd King, Esmond; Mrs. Kelsey Berlin and Mrs. Elmer Gittleton, Rochelle.

Tapered lace sleeves accented the gown's empire bodice which topped a floor-length organza skirt worn over silk taffeta and designed with a court train. 17 in Race for Viet President

SAIGON (AP) — Seventeen candidates are running for president of South Vietnam, but few observers expect all will still be in the race on election day, Sept. 3.

Only a few seem to be serious contenders.

Last week Premier Nguyen Cao Ky accepted the No. 2 spot on a ticket headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu. Some Vietnamese who consider themselves political experts are betting that Ky will be out of the race entirely before long.

With most of the armed forces' 600,000 votes behind them—about 12 per cent of South Vietnam's 5.2 million registered voters—the Thieu-Ky ticket at this time appears to be running ahead.

A confusing element is the candidacy of retired Lt. Gen. Duong Van Minh, now in Thailand. "Big Minh" was exiled as ambassador-at-large several months after he was overthrown as premier in 1964.

His ticket was registered by his vice-presidential running mate, Tran Ngoc Lieng, a lawyer. But South Vietnam's ruling generals say Big Minh would not be allowed to return.

Thich Tri Quang, leader of a militant Buddhist faction, has begun to exploit the generals' refusal to allow Minh back. Although Tri Quang's faction was able to call tens of thousands of demonstrators into the streets as recently as a year ago, it now is divided.

Tri Quang, however, could get a few thousand into the streets, and if other groups apply enough pressure, the generals could be forced to change their minds.

Minh could be expected to draw off some of the military votes from Thieu and Ky and would have some Buddhist support. He is also Southern born and because of this would take southern votes from Thieu, born in central Vietnam, and Ky, a native of Hanoi.

The most prominent civilian candidate, Tran Van Huong, 63, is also a Southerner and has a large Southern following, especially among intellectuals. Huong has chosen a lay Buddhist leader, Mai Tho Truyen, 61, as his running mate.

A popular theory among Vietnamese politicians is that if Thieu wins, Huong would be asked to serve as premier.

Another prominent civilian ticket unites Phan Khac Suu, 61, a former chief of state and now speaker of the Provisional Assembly, with Dr. Phan Quang Dan, 49, a member of the assembly. Suu was jailed briefly by President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The candidates include 15 Southerners, 11 Northerners, and 8 born in central Vietnam. Twenty-two of them live in Saigon, 22 in the surrounding province of Gia Dinh, 1 in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese suburb, 1 in Vung Tau, south of Saigon, and 1 in Thailand.

The candidates include five lawyers and judges, five businessmen and firm owners, three teachers, four doctors, four former civil servants, three military men, a religionist, three writers and journalists, an engineer and a tax consultant.

Whooping Crane Born in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Rosie and Crip, the first whooping cranes in captivity to become parents in the last five years, fed minnows to their fuzzy chick today and zoo officials maintained a round-the-clock watch on a second whooper egg expected to hatch.

The Rose-Crip pair became parents of a baby crane of the rare species Thursday. Fred Stark, director of the San Antonio zoo, pronounced the chick "healthy and lively."

The sex of the chick will not be determined for more than a year. No name has been selected for the day-old whooper.

The other whooper egg is expected to hatch this weekend.

Shabbona Board Meets

SHABBONA—The regular June meeting of the Board of Education of Community Unit School District 425 was held recently at the Shabbona High School.

Bills totalling $37,676.16 were approved for payment and financial arrangements completed for the year which ended June 30.

Howard Mullins, member of the Board of Education of the Kishwaukee Community College, was present to give a progress report on the activities of the college board and to discuss current problems and developments.

After discussing at some length the investment of district funds it was decided to continue the present policy to invest in selected building and loan associations currently paying 5 per cent or more. During the current year investments have earned $3,350.62.

The teaching situation in Unit 425 was reviewed. A contract according to scale was approved for Hildred Palmer of Marseilles, who will teach English at the Shabbona High School.

One vacancy remains at the Rollo Elementary School. This could be filled by a regular primary teacher or by a teacher in the field of special education. Several teachers are seeking housing in the Shabbona area for the coming school term.

Approval was granted to the adoption of the McMillan Reading Series to be used in the schools of the district during the 1967-68 school year. This action followed a year-long study by committees and teachers of the district of current reading practices and new reading series now available.

Bids for several products to be used in the schools during the coming year were examined. Approved were low bids submitted for No. 5 fuel oil by the Smith Oil Co. at 8.72 cents per gallon; Beatrice Foods for milk to be used in the hot lunch programs at 6 cents per 1/2 pint carton and 70 cents per gallon; and Interstate Bakeries for a variety of bread products.

Approval also was given to the proposal by Fourth Street Motors of DeKalb to furnish a car for the driver education department at the Shabbona High School and a pick-up truck for use by the agriculture department and the district during the school year. These vehicles have been furnished gratis to the district by the sponsoring company and the Farmers and Traders State Bank of Shabbona.

Widow Joins Nurse Corps

DECORAH, Iowa (UPI)—Jean Smith has already given much for her country. But she is ready to give more.

Last November Lt. Lloyd Smith died in a helicopter crash in South Vietnam. Now, Lt. Jean Smith hopes, as far as she can, to take his place. Smith's widow joined the Army Nurse Corps. She is preparing to undergo basic training in Texas in preparation for duty in Germany.

"He gave everything," she said. "This is a way I can give a little."

Enterprise Back From War

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—The Big E rested at Alameda Naval Air Station after a second tour of combat duty off Vietnam.

And the 5,300-man crew of the 90,000-ton, nuclear-powered carrier SS Enterprise fanned out on liberty shortly after the huge vessel docked Thursday.

Joy mingled with sadness as the ship was welcomed back noisily-first as it steamed under the Golden Gate Bridge with an estimated 2,500 looking down from the span, then by crowds on San Francisco piers, and finally by 4,000 relatives and friends at its home dock.

The Enterprise, the world's largest warship, came home without 14 of her sons — fliers who went down during the 229-day tour.

Has Cubs Cellar Plunge Begun?

Pirates Fall As Rose Belts Four Hits

Chicago
Loses 5th
In a Row

By GREG GALLO
UPI Sports Writer

Whatever Manager Dave Bristol says goes and Pete Rose couldn't have been happier with the latest Cincinnati Reds strategic maneuver.

The scrappy Rose, who was added to this year's National League All-Stars, returned to play second base for the Reds on July 2nd and he has continued to bomb opposing pitchers at an amazing clip.

Known around the league as Mr. Hustle, Rose has slammed 11 hits in 22 at bats for a .500 average since his manager switched him from left field to second. Rose pounded out a triple, two doubles and a single Friday night to lead the Reds past the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2.

"I'm a little better outfielder than Chico (Ruiz) is and he's a little better infielder than I am," Rose admitted. Ruiz had been the Reds' second baseman up until this week but had not been hitting.

In other National League action, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 5-1, Houston pounded Chicago 11-5, Atlanta edged New York 3-2 in 11 innings and San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

Julian Javier's three-run single in the sixth inning paced the Cardinals past Philadelphia. As the final run crossed the plate John Callison's throw from right field skipped past the catcher and smashed Philly pitcher Larry Jackson in the face. Jackson was X-rayed for a possible fracture. Steve Carlton went the distance to pick up his seventh victory in 12 decisions.

Cubs Lose Fifth

Ron Davis and Bob Aspromonte each slammed two-run doubles as the Astros exploded for five runs in the fourth inning to hand the Cubs their fifth straight loss. Jim Wynn also drove home two runs to increase his league leading total to 62.

Mack Jones hammered his 11th homer of the season to give the Braves a come-from-behind victory over the Mets. Atlanta had sent the game into extra innings when Joe Torre lined a singled to score Hank Aaron in the ninth inning. Torre had earlier hit his 12th home run of the year.

Jim Ray Hart's two-run homer backed the combined five-hit pitching of Ray Sadecki and Frank Linzy as the Giants beat Los Angeles. Sadecki worked the first 7-2-3 innings as he picked up his third straight triumph of the season. Jeff Torborg hit his second homer of the year for the Dodgers.

Game Tonight

East Is Favored In All-America

By DAVID M. MOFFIT
ATLANTA (UPI)—The favored East kept an eye on the weather today, fearful that predicted rain might dampen its aerial edge in today's Coaches All-America football game.

With Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier of Florida and Heisman runnerup Bob Griese of Purdue sharing the quarterback role, the East can be expected to mount a fierce air attack on a dry field.

But rain could even the odds since the West has the bigger line and a more potent inside running attack.

Ticket Sales Slow

Game time is 9:30 p.m. EDT to accommodate national television (ABC). Although the telecast will be blackened out within 100 miles of Atlanta, ticket sales have been going poorly and officials fear attendance may be less than 25,000.

Judge Studies Clay Activities

HOUSTON (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, convicted of refusing the draft oath, asked Friday for court permission to fight in Tokyo to pay alimony and his lawyers. The judge ordered a long pause in the hearing to allow a probe of possible anti-American activities by the Black Muslim fighter.

In a motion filed Friday before U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham, who sentenced Clay June 20 to five years in prison and a fine of $10,000, Clay said a Tokyo promotion firm, Artlife Association, held him to a contract which must be honored before he can fight anywhere else.

The government opposed the motion in the hearing before Ingraham, claiming the stiff sentence the judge gave the boxer—the maximum permissible “is an incentive for him to flee.”

“Put guards on me—American troops,” Clay said. “I’m not going to sneak away.”

Clay now walks free under the $5,000 bond he posted upon his indictment for refusing the draft oath. The bond was extended with his conviction, which is on appeal, and that extension was, as Ingraham pointed out Friday, “a judicial grace.”

In opposing Clay's motion, U. S. Atty. Morton L. Susman asked Ingraham to withdraw Clay's passport. The government lawyer argued that Clay had participated in a Los Angeles peace rally, autographing draft cards.

Ingraham said bond would be withdrawn and Clay sent directly to jail if it were learned that the fighter “is using his liberty under enlargement of bond for un-American activities.”

The judge ordered the hearing recessed until July 21, and Susman will have until that time to wait for a possible Federal Bureau of Investigation report on Clay's activities while free on bond.

Clay said the Aug. 15 Tokyo fight, against an unnamed opponent would bring him $200,000.

Men's Tennis Team Travels

Dixon Men's Tennis Team have entered the Northern Illinois Tennis Association's League Tournament today and Sunday, in Rockford.

Singles play started at 9 a.m. and will continue throughout the day.

Doubles action will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Single entrants for the Petunia City will be Dave Johnson, John Wallin, Glenn Wallin, Tom Green, Jeff Hargrave and Dave Helms.

The team will be minus the services of John Underwood, who last week claimed the Petunia City Men's Singles Championship and also was on the winning doubles team.

Underwood will join the team in Rockford Sunday to seek the doubles crown.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—A guy who played with Adolfo Phillips and knows him pretty well says he has the most unusual contract in baseball.

“He only plays when he wants to,” this guy says about Phillips. “The sun has to set just right for him the night before or else he won't play the next day.”

No man is a hero to his valet nor is one ballplayer to another. Players generally call the shots as they see 'em about people running the government, people running the airlines and people running the bases. Meaning each other.

But in this particular case, Phillips, the 24-year-old Panamanian-born outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, could come back with a good strong answer in his own behalf.

He could argue he played in all 141 of the Cubs' games this season until two weeks ago when he missed nine more because of a bad back. Nobody could question that bad back, either, because he was going great guns at the time, hitting .317, and no ballplayer ever sits down voluntarily hitting .317.

Wants To Play

Now Phillips is only a few points above .300 and there's evidence his back isn't completely better but he still wants to play. Maybe it's because of some of those things they said about him.

Much has been made of the fact that Cub third baseman Ron Santo nearly belted Phillips once because of his nonchalance. Santo made it up the hard way in baseball and comes from the old school.

So when Phillips all but yawned at a fly ball hit his way one day last year, Santo grabbed him by the shirt in the dugout and had to be hollered off by Leo Durocher. Everyone knows that story now.

Originally, Cub coach Pete Reiser came from the same school as Santo but he changed. Pistol Pete changed while managing a bunch of beardless kids in the minors. Nobody ever coddled Reiser when he first broke in. When he managed in the minors, though, he found out they do things differently today. You don't blister a kid's ears for something he does wrong any more; now you baby him.

When Phillips first came up with the Phillies, nobody bothered doing that and he felt lost. But he suddenly discovered a brand new atmosphere in April of 1966 when the Phillies traded him to the Cubs. Most important of all, perhaps, he discovered someone who could understand him in the sympathetic Reiser.

“I thought when he first joined us he had been overcriticized for a lot of things he did on the ball field,” says Reiser. “Being a Latin ballplayer, he misunderstood the criticism. He thought nobody liked him and that he had no friends in baseball.”

“Didn't Feel Well”

Reiser recalls the Santo-Phillips episode and feels it might have even done the young outfielder some good. “Dolph said he wasn't feeling very well and didn't think he should be playing. When this ball was hit to him in the outfield, he loafed on it and almost walked after the ball.

“Anyway, Santo and him had a few words in the dugout and it might have helped a little bit. This has been true in other cases in baseball. Go back to the '41 Dodgers. We had some pretty rough times in that clubhouse getting on one another.”

Durocher had a long talk with Phillips after the Santo affair and assured him people did not hate him. He told Phillips everyone loved him. He assured him the way only Leo can. Then he turned him back over to Reiser.

“We've had pretty good luck with the boy,” offers the Cub coach. “Just by being nice to him and kidding him, and at the same time giving him a kick in the rear when he needed it.

“He's got every God-given quality a man should have to become a super-star,” Reiser goes on. “When I look at him, I see a little of myself, Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle.”

Those certainly are three fine ballplayers, Reiser sees.

Now if Phillips can only get past that sunset—

Speedbowl Plans New Race Tonight

STERLING — Officials of the popular Sterling Speedbowl Park have announced a figure eight division has been established in the Sterling Stock Car Racing Association.

Thirty cars have already signed up for tonight's inaugural program. Among them the 1965 and 1966 Quad City Figure Eight Champions.

Many local fans have expressed an interest in the popular and thrilling figure eight racing. The management of Speedbowl has cut the cross-over in the center of the track and is modifying the lighting system to present these exciting races to the spectators.

The figure eight racing is somewhat different than the conventional oval racing. The cars travel in a figure eight pattern and must cross at an intersection in the center of the track. As cars are racing on the “ragged edge” of control for positions the intersection becomes the center of excitement as cars are sometimes stacked, rolled over and even crashed on two and three high.

The unwritten rule that the first man at the intersection has the right of way works fine until two cars meet at the same time, then the drivers' sheer guts decide if either or any of the cars make it thru.

Some of the most exciting moments can come as the drivers are getting the feel of the track. The most thrilling program of the year may well be tonight at 7:30.

Any drivers interested in competing in the figure eight races may pick up copies of the rules and regulations at the track.

Twins Give Contest To Chicago on Error

The ball continues to bounce right for the Chicago White Sox, almost as if someone had a string attached to it.

A light-hitting team which gets by on pitching and good base running, the White Sox have been “winning with mirrors” as the old-saying goes yet have been firmly entrenched in first place in the American League since May 15.

Give the White Sox one little break and you end up on the short end of a one-run ball game, and those are the kind that separate pennant winners from also-rans.

The Minnesota Twins, who had won eight straight games and were looking for a chance to make a serious run at first place, became victims of the White Sox' magic Friday night when they kicked away what looked to be a 1-0 victory in the ninth inning on an error by their usually reliable shortstop, Zoilo Versalles.

Dean Chance seemingly had Chicago blanked on five hits as he retired the first batter to face him in the ninth. But then trouble started as Tom McCraw singled and Chance walked pinch-hitter Jim King and J.C. Martin in succession to load the bases.

Al Worthington was summoned from the bullpen to quell the rally and succeeded in retiring Don Buford on a pop fly for the second out. Ron Hansen was the next batter and smacked a grounder to Versalles' left, which the smooth fielding shortstop got his glove on but could not come up with.

By the time he recovered and threw to first it was too late, as both McCraw and pinch-runner Buddy Bradford had crossed the plate giving the White Sox a 2-1 victory.

California Wins Two

In other AL action, Detroit beat Boston 5-4 in 11 innings. New York blanked Baltimore 3-0, Cleveland beat Washington 6-3 and California swept a doubleheader from Kansas City, 7-2 and 8-2.

Bill Freehan's double scored Jim Northrup in the 11th inning and enabled the Tigers to move into second place. Freehan's winning hit came off loser John Wyatt and helped Mike Marshall to the victory. Norm Cash homered for Detroit and Tony Conigliaro homered for Boston.

Joe Pepitone's two-run homer and the four-hit pitching of Al Downing carried the Yankees to victory over the Orioles. Downing struck out 12 while boosting his record to 9-5.

Sam McDowell pitched a four-hitter and singled in a seventh inning run as the Indians snapped a four-game losing

Bookies Back Billie Jean

By CHARLES W. BELL
WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—A million British mums put their hopes and ha'pennies today on Ann Jones, a hometown girl they desperately wanted to dethrone Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., as Wimbledon women's champion.

The smart money, though, was solidly behind the efficient, precise Billie Jean on this final day of the 18th all England tennis championships. Bookies installed her as 2-9 betting favorite and gave 3-1 odds on Mrs. Jones.

John Newcombe of Australia, the third seed, easily captured the men's title Friday by beating unseeded Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1, in 70 minutes.

Mrs. King, the top-ranking amateur in the United States, plowed through her previous opponents in good stride and appeared at the top of her game for today's match.

However, Mrs. Jones' first appearance in the finals, after six times reaching the semifinal round, was enough to drive the price of precious center court seats up from 27 shillings ($3.80) to eight pounds ($22.40).

Mrs. King, 23, took the title last year from Maria Bueno of Brazil and this year moved to the final in four matches—plus a forfeit win—without dropping a set. Mrs. Jones, 28, beat three Americans en route to the final, but was extended to the third set in three of her six matches.

Billie Jean and Rosemary Casals, 18, of San Francisco, were partners in today's women's doubles final against defending champions and No. 1 seeds Miss Bueno and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex.

In addition, Mrs. King was paired with Owen Davidson of Australia—and seeded first—in the mixed doubles event. They met Ken Fletcher and Karen Krantzcke of Australia in the final.
